January 5, 2015 Update

Whew! I hope you all made it through the Christmas season in fine shape. I know I am ready to get back to normal life. I am really ready to get back to sewing and I'm feeling the need to make a new table runner. We just got in some new Valentines and St Patrick's Day fabrics that might just fit the bill.

This past weekend was so cold I opted to go nowhere and stay home and sew on something fun. I stitched up this Hexagon Situpon using Moda's Pedal Pushers fabric. It is stuffed with lots of batting scraps and anything else that I could find that was stuffable. It was so easy and fun to make that I would really consider making another one. We have the patterns available.

Just in this week are some new Kaffe Facett fabrics

When we had our Stuff your stocking event one of our featured items was this new steam mini iron. I took one home and tried it out this weekend. I LOVE it. It's great next to the sewing machine, It's lightweight, and gets nice and hot plus it has the added feature of steam. It now has a permanent home in my sewing room.
