

I had a fun time last week meeting with the other shop owners who are participating in this year's Shop Hop. We had exchanged fabric earlier in the year and each made a different quilt using the same fabrics. This is a picture of our Shop Hop quilt. Plan to collect a fabric kit at each shop and you can recreate one of our quilts for yourself. Check out the other quilts at www.centrankansasquiltshophop.4t.com/. Friday Oct 2nd through Sunday Oct 4th are the dates. Register to win one of over 50 gift baskets to be given away. Grand prize is a $500 shopping spree and 2nd prize is a $250 shopping spree. You will also be voting for your favorite challenge quilt. Grab a couple buddies and plan a road trip. It's really going to be fun and there is a free gift for you if you visit all 10 shops.

We have had several calls lately for plaid flannels. These yummy soft ones just came in from Marcus Brothers. I'm waiting impatiently for a pattern that I just ordered so I can get started on a quilt with these gorgeous beauties.

We have been getting ready for fall and Halloween. We have some really great new panels that would work up quickly into a wall hanging for your Halloween decorating.

This funny little embroidery Top Hat Jack was stitched up by Terry using one of Crab Apple Hills patterns and some crayons. Add some fun little Halloween buttons, hang it on a wire tabletop hanger and you have a great new addition to your fall decorations.

Sep 21, 2015 Update

We have a great table runner panel that I think is really genius. The panel comes with 2 table runners pre-printed on it. You can sew them together at the ends and make one long runner or stitch them up separately to make two. The red and white poinsettias look so rich and elegant on the black background.

I was searching for something the other day and ran across this quilt that I made several years ago. I remember it was so fun to make. I really would like to make it again, but this time use icy blues and silvers to create a winter themed one. I've ordered the patterns and may even consider a class in the future if there is any interest.

Deb Johnson has been busy designing again and has come up with this cute little quilt she calls Colson's Cars. Wouldn't this make a sweet present for a little guy?

These little kits would make a perfect quick gift for somebody on your list. Hang it from a cute wire hanger and it makes a really sweet little wallhanging.

Yarn 101

Do you walk into a yarn shop or look at our yarn shelves and think "how do I ever pick one?" Would you like to learn more about yarn, what the different weights are, and what yarn is right for a project you have in mind? Chaunteal will explain all this and more in an informational lecture on Thursday Oct 15th at 6:00 PM. There is a $5.00 registration fee. Call today or stop in to get signed up.

I'm getting so excited about next weekend. Shop Hop is such a blast! I can't wait to see all of you.

Have a great week and stitch something wonderful!

PS - Happy birthday this week to my dear friends Jackie and Sheri.
